Welcome to the 2008 WWMA technical conference information page. In the coming months, this page will be updated with a wealth of information to make your trip to Alaska as rewarding as possible. Please check often to look for changes.

This year's conference will be held in the Anchorage Marriott Downtown hotel September 7-11. The website below gives you a good look at where we will be working and staying this September.

As the conference gets closer, I will be adding the general information you need and answer all your questions or requests to make your stay exciting and productive. Don't hesitate to email.

To get the excitement building, I hope you will visit these websites for a good overview of our city. (and a couple of completely unrelated fishing sites!)
